ZEPPELIN INVITED TO HOP HERE

ECKENER ASKED TO PASS OVER CERAMIC CITY ON OHIO TOUR

"Graf" Will Make 48-Hour Inland Cruise.
STARTS THURSDAY
German Commander
Plans Trans-Oceanic
Dirigible Line.

The Graf Zeppelin today was invited by the aviation committee of the Chamber of Commerce to fly over East Liverpool next week on its 48-hour tour of mid-western cities.

Telegram To Lakehurst.
A telegram, urging the flight over the Ceramic City on the trip across Ohio, sent to Lakehurst, N. J., was addressed to an official of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber company, which is arranging for the Zeppelin's tour.

According to test pilot plans, the trip will start on Thursday. Pittsburgh, Akron and Cleveland are among the cities which have been placed on the Graf's itinerary. It was pointed out in the invitation from the Chamber of Commerce that East Liverpool is almost on the direct air line between Pittsburgh and Akron and that the big craft would not be required to go far out of its course.

Eckener Will Tour Middle West.
NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—The German dirigible, Graf Zeppelin, will make a 48-hour tour of middle western American cities at the end of next week before returning to Friedrichshafen, it was definitely decided today by Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the big airship, according to an announcement made by Hugh Allen, representative of the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation of America.

Dr. Eckener was swayed in making his decision, it is understood, by the urgent invitations of a number of American cities that he pay them a visit by air with his first trans-Atlantic passenger dirigible rather than (Continued on page 8, column 2)

Today

A Song, Then a Fight.
First Freight by Air.
Senator Bingham Alert.
40 to 80, Best Years.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review.)

WHAT impression did our civilization make on foreigners arriving in the Zeppelin when they landed and were "entertained" at Lakehurst?

We know what would have happened if the Zeppelin had landed from another planet among cave ancestors 200,000 years ago. The entertainment would have been made up largely of fights, which would have been natural among cave-men.

AT LAKEHURST the program of entertainment which Dr. Eckener attended read:

"Boxing, 160-pound class, four rounds.

"The Yankee Rhythm Boys.

"Boxing, 160-pound class, four rounds.

"The Dainty Sisters, singing a patriotic song."

And so it went—a song and a fight, a fight and a song, to the end.

IT MAY be necessary even in these days of submarines, poison gas and air fleets, to make our soldiers and sailors box to amuse officers.

But it is really necessary to force upon intelligent foreigners a realization of the part that prize fighting plays in our civilization?

Couldn't we, for instance, have two patriotic songs instead of one for each fight?

THE Zeppelin brought the first air freight from Europe to America. Future Zeppelins of great carrying capacity may find usefulness and profit as freight carriers. Their air displacement is too great for them ever to be useful for speed.

The future air freight carriers, however, will not, like this Zeppelin, be covered on the outside with cotton that the wind can blow away.

They will be made of metal, a mixture of aluminum and other metals. (Continued on page 8, column 6)

DEFENSE WINS DAMAGE SUIT

At the direction of Judge Hanley, a jury of 12 men in municipal court yesterday brought in a verdict for the defendant in the case of Walter Morris who sued I. H. Aronson for $385 damages as the result of a property deal. This was the third time that the case had been tried in municipal court.

The $100 damage action of Thomas Calvin, St. Clair township against Carl Coburn, Dixonville, aftermath of an automobile crash at the intersection of the Sub-station and Calcutta roads on August 7, 1928, was dismissed at the cost of the plaintiff today. The plaintiff was represented by Cochran and Crawford, while Foulks and Stevenson appeared for the defendants.

ROBBERS RAID PEOPLE'S STORE, GETTING $1,000 IN CLOTHING

Fourteen Men's Suits and Several Women's Dresses Taken.

OTHERS DAMAGED

Entrance is Effected Through Barred Window.

Forcing an entrance through an iron barred rear window, robbers looted The People's credit clothing store in the old Diamond theater building, Market and West Fifth streets, early today. They fled with merchandise valued at $1,000.

Twelve men's suits, seven women's dresses and two top coats were dropped by the robbers at the rear of the building. The merchandise was water-soaked from the rain. Several hundred dollars' worth of other wearing apparel, including 14 men's suits and an undetermined number of dresses, overcoats, boys' suits and other merchandise, is missing.

Suspect Boy Aided Gang.
The robbery is believed to have occurred after 5:20 o'clock when Emmett Blake, merchants' policeman, made his last rounds of the business district. He said that everything was O. K. when he looked in back of the building, an hour and a half before he went off duty.

The robbers forced an eight-inch opening between the iron bars over a window which leads into a work room at the rear of the store. The glass in the window was smashed. The intruders are believed to have been accompanied by a boy who crawled through the narrow opening between the bars and then unbolting the double door which opens into a yard at the rear of the building.

The robbery was not discovered until 8:30 o'clock this morning. Irvin White, manager of the store, opened the place at 7:30 o'clock, but had no occasion to visit the work room. An hour later a saleswoman discovered the broken window in the rear room.

Use Auto to Remove Loot.
The robbers reached the rear of the store by passing through a narrow alley back of the Olympic confectionery, New York restaurant and the Kirby shoe store. Bakers and cooks work at the New York restaurant all night but none of them heard the robbers.

The intruders made no attempt to open the safe in the office of the store. An electric cord was missing. The robbers are believed to have used it to tie the clothing to a motor vehicle. White believes that an automobile was used in removing the loot. Captain of Police Conley investigated the robbery.

Each of the articles was prepared within view of her audience in the model kitchen arranged on the stage.

Nineteen prizes were awarded the following women at yesterday's session at which "Food and Its Composition" was discussed by the lecturer: Market baskets—Theresa Bashaw, 305 West Fourth street; Mrs. C. Ships Fail to Sight MacDonald 24 Hours After Moth Plane Hop London Reports no Trace of Young British Aviator, Emulating Colonel C. A. Lindbergh, Who Jumped From Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, Yesterday.

PLANNED TO AVERAGE 100 MILES AN HOUR IN 2,000-MILE FLIGHT

Queenstown Radio Station Receives no News, But Says Airman Probably Will Encounter Heavy Going Because of Weather Conditions Off Southern Coast of Ireland.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—At 5 o'clock this afternoon, 24 hours had elapsed since Commander H. C. MacDonald, the young British aviator "who would a Lindbergh be," hopped off at Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, in his little DeHavilland Moth plane to attempt a non-stop solo flight to Croydon air field and nothing had been heard of him.

MacDonald had planned to average 100 miles an hour, negotiating the 2,000 miles in about 20 hours. Failure of any ships to report sighting him has begun to cause fears for his safety.

The air ministry announced that it had received no news whatsoever as to the progress or fate of the aviator.

QUEENSTOWN, Irish Free State, Oct. 18.—Despite wireless inquiries to ships at sea, the Queenstown radio station was without news of the MacDonald trans-Atlantic flight at mid-afternoon. The channel storm did not extend this far west. The weather here was clear, bright and sunny and visibility was excellent. Rain Reported Off Ireland.

QUEENSTOWN, Ireland, Oct. 18.—With weather conditions off the southern coast of Ireland distinctly unfavorable today, it was feared Commander H. C. MacDonald would encounter heavy going in the latter part of his journey across the Atlantic in his tiny Moth plane.

MacDonald's westerly winds which would slow his plane down somewhat and overcast skies which would hamper him in keeping to his course were in evidence today. In the early hours of the morning, a heavy downpour of rain fell in this region.

Gale Warning Issued.
PLYMOUTH, England, October 18.—Up to mid-afternoon the naval air stations were without any news of the progress of Commander H. C. MacDonald, the young English aviator, who hopped off at Harbor Grace, N. F., yesterday afternoon to attempt a solo flight to Croydon.

Fears for the safety of the aviator are arising owing to a southwesterly gale which is raging over the English channel and the Irish sea.

A gale warning has been issued for the eastern Atlantic through which region MacDonald would have to pass to reach his goal.

England Gasps at Airman's Daring.
LONDON, Oct. 18.—All England gasped today at the daring of Commander H. C. MacDonald, the intrepid British flier who is now believed to be far out over the Atlantic in his attempt to span the ocean in a tiny 85-horsepower De Havilland Moth plane.

Flying alone, MacDonald left Harbor Grace at 1:21 p. m. (Newfoundland time) yesterday with enough fuel aboard to keep his plane aloft about 35 hours.

MacDonald left here about five weeks ago with a mechanic and his crated plane. At that time he informed friends that he intended flying back in the middle of October.

Quietly he went about his preparations after his arrival at Harbor Grace and when he took the far yesterday, it was at first thought he was making a trial flight. However, when he failed to return after several hours, it was assumed he had taken advantage of favorable weather to essay the trans-Atlantic voyage.

Plane Fully Loaded.
His plane was fully loaded with fuel. Normally, the Moth plane carries about 100 gallons but extra fuel tanks had been installed in MacDonald's plane to give it a flying radius estimated at from 3,000 to 3,500 miles. The small four cylinder motor consumes only six gallons an hour. The plane weighs only about 800 pounds empty and its wingspread is only 33 feet.

MacDonald is expected to follow the course from Newfoundland to the western coast of Ireland first used by Alcock and Brown in 1919. He is well known here for his daring. He received the distinguished service cross before retiring from the navy in 1926. His experience in navigating gained in the navy is expected to aid him on his trans-Atlantic venture. Last May MacDonald attempted to fly from here to India but was forced down at Bagdad. On the way back he was forced down on a desert and held prisoner by an Arab tribe until rescued by an Italian armored car.

Donahew Telegraphs Invitation.
COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 18.—On behalf of Ohio citizens, Governor Vic Donahew today telegraphed an invitation to Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Graf Zeppelin, to fly his huge dirigible over the Baron von Steuben highway which connects two Ohio cities, Springfield and Washington, C. H.

Church Remodeling Plans Are Approved

Second Presbyterian Congregation Authorizes Immediate Steps in $30,000 Reconstruction Program.

WELLSVILLE, O., Oct. 18.—Plans for the remodeling of the Second Presbyterian church building, Eighth street, at a cost estimated between $25,000 and $30,000, took definite shape at a congregational meeting last night when the general building committee, comprising the joint boards, was instructed to proceed with preliminary steps.

These Symptoms May Mean Gall Stones

Dizziness, biliousness, constipation, stomach and intestinal distress, headaches, and pain in right side are usually first signs.

The first requisite to banish these symptoms is to wake up the sluggish liver, thin the bile and bring about a normal healthy flow of pure bile. One of the best things in the world for this is the marvelous new prescription called Klax-Ko.

Klax-Ko thins out the bile, clears the bile ducts and gall bladder of thick congested bile and the healthy bile in turn corrects the poisoned condition in the intestines. The digestive system is purified and the distressing symptoms and pain are banished.

Klax-Ko is easy and safe to take and contains no harmful drugs. If neglected, gall stones often lead to a serious operation, so be sure of your health. Get Klax-Ko today from Carnahan Drug Co. or any good druggist. Guaranteed to help you or money refunded.

These steps will consist largely in the letting of contracts and other details prior to breaking ground and will be hurried as much as possible in order that actual work may be started as rapidly as possible.

Church officers stated today that in all probability services will be held in the present quarters for perhaps two weeks more before the congregation seeks other quarters for its meetings.

The remodeling plan will virtually redouble the building's capacity for its Sunday school work and in addition will provide innumerable facilities that heretofore have been lacking. These include a gymnasium in the basement and equipment for church socials and other entertainment features of this style.

Thirteen Sunday school class rooms will be inclosed and the auditorium will be considerably larger than it is at present.

The remodeled building will be of brick, portions of the present structure being veneered. The ground dimensions will measure 82 by 50, the present structure being 50 by 30.

The wooden church where the congregation worships now was erected 35 years ago.

Merryman's statement came during the closing arguments before the jury was submitted to the jury and followed a charge by Seidel that "morals of the youth of Jefferson county are being undermined by the liquor traffic in Steubenville and Jefferson county."

The jury deliberated slightly more than an hour before reaching a verdict.

The default judgment entered in common pleas court July 23, last, for $296.80 in favor of George M. Aten against Chalmier McIntosh has been vacated on motion of the defendant.

The vacation, however, has been held in abeyance until the final trial of the case. Leave has been granted the defendant to file his pleadings.

EVERYTHING HAD FAILED; KONJOLA CAME TO RESCUE

Spent $200 in Vain Search For Relief—Made Well Again By Master Medicine.

MRS. DAISY SAMBORY.

Wonderful are the successes of Konjola where everything has failed; where hope has been abandoned; where the future looks dark for those afflicted with stomach, liver, kidney and bowel troubles. Read the remarkable experience of Mrs. Daisy Sambory, 814 O'Brien street, Toledo, Ohio. Vibrant with health regained, Mrs. Sambory said:

"Konjola came into my pain-stricken life when I feared my case was hopeless. My kidneys and liver were deeply affected and grew worse despite many forms of treatment. At night I had to rise five or six times. My liver was sluggish. Severe dizzy spells came on so suddenly that I feared to leave my home. I had spent more than $200 seeking medical help, but all in vain. At this point in my distress I resolved to try Konjola. Today I am well, entirely freed from all my ailments. Pains have vanished, sleep is easy, complexion clear, kidneys and bowels in splendid condition. I am in better health, far better than I have been for ten years. How I wish that all who endure the torments that I did, would profit by this wonderful experience, and give Konjola the chance to make them well again like it did me."

Konjola is sold in East Liverpool at Carman's drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

HASKIN DAILY LETTER
By Frederick J. Haskin
WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 18.—The Cleveland Blaine race of 1884 illustrates upon what small things a Presidential election may turn. If James G. Blaine had not quarreled with Roscoe Conkling in congress, Conkling would not have sukked in his tent in 1884, and New York would have swung the union to the Republicans again. Or, if Ben Butler had kept out of the race as the nominee of the anti-Monopoly and Green-back parties and the would-be nominee of the Democratic party, Cleveland would have lost New York and the Democrats the presidency. Still another if of that election was Burchard's charge that the Democracy was the party of Rum, Romanism, and Rebellion. That in itself was determinative of the result.
The anti-Monopoly party was first in the field with a convention. It nominated Ben Butler, a former Republican but now Democratic governor of Massachusetts. The Greenbackers met and also nominated Butler. When the Democratic national convention met, Butler was there as a delegate with a pocketful of resolutions. One of the planks in his platform called for federal pensions for Confederate soldiers, for he thought this would stampede the south to him for the nomination. He saw his resolutions so hopelessly defeated that he allowed his boom to collapse on the spot and his name was not brought before the convention.
President Arthur was a candidate for his party's nomination. John Sherman, John A. Logan, and George F. Edmunds also were candidates, but Blaine had the inside track in the race. Theodore Roosevelt and Henry Cabot Lodge were in the convention and Roosevelt seconded the nomination of a negro, J. R. Lynch, for temporary chairman, after Lodge had placed his name before the convention. Powell Clayton was the opposition candidate, but was defeated by Lynch by a narrow margin. Roosevelt and Lodge were supporters of Senator Edmunds and did all they could to encompass the defeat of Blaine. Conkling was unsuccessful in his effort to hand Blaine a third convention defeat, but when election day rolled around he fed fat his ancient grudge.
The Democratic convention met with Tammany strongly opposing Grover Cleveland. It tried to defeat him by threatening to knife him at the polls. Failing in this threat, it sought to break the unit rule by offering a resolution that, should any of the delegates from a state request it, they could be polled separately. This, too, was voted down. Then Thomas F. Grady, Tammany spokesman, began a long tirade of abuse of Cleveland, but the longer he spoke the stronger Cleveland became, and when General Bragg followed Grady and said "We love Cleveland for the enemies he has made" the verbal shot hit the bull's eye and Tammany was ridden over roughshod. Cleveland was nominated on the second ballot.
The prohibitionists were in the field with two tickets, although the one seems to have failed to nominate electors in any state. The irregularly nominated prohibition candidate was Samuel C. Pomeroy of Kansas, and the nominee of the regular convention was J. P. St. John, also of the Sunflower state.
The nomination of Blaine by the Republicans brought a big bolt. George William Curtis said that he was at the birth of the Republican party and was in danger of having to witness its death. Dozens of eminent men like Curtis and Carl Schurz and Henry Ward Beecher joined the Mugwump movement against Blaine and for Cleveland. Between the adjournment of the Republican convention and the meeting of the Democratic convention the bolters met and declared that "we look with solicitude to the coming nominations by the Democratic party; they have the proper men, and we hope they will put them before the people for election."
The Tammany contingent finally got into line by a personal appeal from the vice presidential candidate, Thomas A. Hendricks. He told Chief John Kelly that he must not cut his friends in order to get at his enemy, and Kelly relented, resulting in the Tammany vote in the main being cast for the presidential candidate that Tammany hated.
Blaine was intensely popular in the West, in spite of the innumerable charges that were brought against him. His swing around the circle created unprecedented enthusiasm in the Mississippi Valley, but when he got back to New York it was different. There the public opinion as to the propriety of some of his financial acts while in the service of the government was decidedly adverse to him. It was this which led to a party of New York writers calling on him to show that the pulpit had not lost confidence in him, and Farnum Burchard's unfortunate assertion that Blaine was fighting Rum, Romanism, and Rebellion. The opposition took it up and made great political capital of it among the Catholics in general and the Irish Catholics in particular.
Before the campaign closed it was generally evident that the election hinged on New York state, and each party moved heaven and earth to make that big plum fall its way. When the returns came in it was found that Cleveland had won the state with only 1149 votes to spare. Both sides claimed the state and there was preparation for trouble, but the Republicans found themselves hoist by their own petard. In 1876 they had based their whole effort to seat Sayes over Tilden upon the doctrine that the federal government can not go behind the returns, and so, with no means of securing an outside count of the vote, the Republicans were forced to concede the election of Cleveland. It was asserted that the Butler ballots were counted for Cleveland in New York City, and that without them Cleveland never could have reached the White House.
Tomorrow: The Populist Movement in 1892.

Register
Warning that more than 3,000 citizens have neglected to qualify for the November 6 balloting, the Columbiana county board of deputy state supervisors of elections today called attention to the fact that Friday is the third day of quadrennial registration in East Liverpool, the only enrollment city in the county.
Tomorrow as well as on Saturday, the last registration day, registrars will be on duty in the city's 23 precincts, prepared to enroll men and women who have attained voting age or who will be 21 on or before election day.
Electors may qualify from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. and 5 to 10 p. m., the hours designated by the state election law. In the event that any voter who enrolled on Oct. 4 or 11 has moved in the interim, he should apply for a transfer to his new precinct.
In order to have a voice in the election of national, state, district and county officers, East Liverpool voters must register in October of presidential campaign year. Failure to do so means loss of the right of suffrage.
Register tomorrow!

Dishonesty Never Pays
Scarcely a day passes that the newspapers of the land do not carry corroboration of the old saying that "Honesty is the best policy."
A few days ago the head of the travel bureau of one of New York City's leading hotels was found guilty of trying to smuggle into this country 23 bottles of liquor and merchandise valued at $1,065.70. He and his wife, returning from Europe, had jointly declared dutiable articles to the value of $225 and paid the duty on the $25 in excess of their exemptions of $100 each, and also the duty on $572 worth of merchandise purchased abroad by them for friends. As he had a customs pass, as a result of his position, which admitted him to all ports, he might have succeeded in getting the goods through undetected, as he would naturally be one of the last to be suspected of attempting to work a fraud on the government. It so happened, however, that an inspector noticed the man's baggage piled on a truck and ready to be taken from the pier, none of which bore customs seals, and among something like a dozen pieces were several boxes that showed no evidences of having been opened. Unable to find any inspector in charge of this particular lot of luggage, the inspector ordered it removed and searched.
The immediate result was that the travel bureau head was fined $115 and had to pay duties and penalties on the undeclared merchandise amounting to $2,011.40, making $2,126.40 in all. More than that, he was rebuked for the betrayal of trust which went with his pass to board ships and enter customs enclosures, and his pass was ordered revoked.
But these penalties are trifling in comparison with what he will have to suffer. Henceforth he will be a marked man among customs officials. Even should he be able to retain his place, the revoking of his pass hurts his effectiveness. Instead of being free to come and go on ships and piers as other travel bureau people are, he will be constantly watched and followed. That he will long be able to follow travel bureau work is to be doubted, for even should he change his location, the story of his attempt at smuggling will follow him.
Dishonesty didn't pay this man. It never pays. It may seemingly pay for a time, but in the long run it is bound to prove expensive. Even had this hotel man succeeded in getting his baggage through without the discovery of the undeclared articles, he would have been the loser, for his betrayal of the trust of the customs officials would have made him a changed man. He simply couldn't have retained his self-respect and worked among them as in the past.

Soldiers Plead For Peace
Folks everywhere who long for the days when armed conflicts between nations of the world will be things of the past must have been immeasurably thrilled when two of the victorious generals of the World war stood on the same platform at San Antonio and voiced pleas for an international accord and peace.
Lord Allenby, conqueror of Palestine, and General Pershing, commander of the A. E. F., spoke from their hearts and with a vigor and emphasis which could not be misunderstood by the thousands of veterans within range of their voice. They most heartily indorsed the recently ratified Kellogg pact for the outlawry of war, but warned their hearers that this great achievement was only one of the steps toward peace, and not an ultimate guarantee.
The words of General Pershing and Lord Allenby ought to suffice, too, in quieting some of the discord which certain elements in the United States seek to raise in opposition to the Kellogg pact. When men who were under fire are discerning enough to appreciate what the Kellogg pact means to civilization, their views should be of sufficient strength to quiet ugly rumors which discordant and disgruntled individuals raise.
To those who may think that soldiers pleading for peace is a contradiction, it is only necessary to say that they declared for peace with honor, and that in the meantime nations must be prepared to defend themselves against aggressions from the outside. Lord Allenby made the point clear when he denounced the ancient notion that we must fight. He had only a feeling of horror for the theory that blood-letting was necessary. Surgeons, he said, had long ago abandoned the delusion that there was virtue in blood-letting. In his opinion it was high time nations did the same thing.
General Pershing told the American Legion members that they had duties in times of peace quite as important, if not so dangerous, as those in times of war. Lord Allenby, as the representative of the British Legion, said the two organizations could be important factors in the cause of international peace. The war, he reminded his American friends, had brought both gains and losses. Some hopes had been disappointed, but he felt that time would heal many wounds. Patience was a virtue "and we can now see the dispersing of the fogs of misunderstanding and the widening of men's hearts to a knowledge of the real purposes of peace."

Q. Where or how did the strike originate? F. P.
A. The first appearance of the strike in history was the strike of secession of the plebeians against the patricians in Ancient Rome 494 B. C.
Q. Why did the churches and monasteries of the Middle Ages face the West? R. A.
A. The altars of the early Christian churches faced the East. The principal entrance to the church faced the west. There is a tradition to the effect that the altar was so placed in order that the priest could face the direction from which came Christianity.
Q. Please give the name of the largest canyon in California. C. B.
A. King's Canyon is the largest canyon in California. Kern Canyon is the next in size.

Ritzzy Rosalie
Rosalie's makeup is so perfect that even jingles is especially eager to show her admiration. The secret of it is that with the newest materials for make-up it is easy to approach perfection. The eyebrows, always an important part, are now more easily handled by using a combination of three solutions, one of which is a preparatory one, the second a dye, and the third an oil treatment. The brows and lashes remain colored for a month, defying all the usual causes of disappearance. Another new method is an eyebrow pencil which is identical in appearance with a common lead pencil, and can be sharpened to a very fine point. Still another aid to milady's beauty is the powder brush. This resembles a baby's hair brush in appearance, and is made of camel's hair. It removes the surplus powder from the face, and gives the skin a beautiful soft finish.

NEW YORK Day By Day
By O. O. McIntyre.
NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—A young man or woman cannot live independently or decently in New York on less than $25 a week. And even this amount requires scrimping. Such is the warning broadcast by the Welfare Council, an organization devoted to helping the stranger within the gates.
It further admonishes boys and girls from the prairie cottage and village street that to come here without a job, friends, relatives or bank account is merely inviting a demoralizing situation from which only a slim few are extricated.
Blame is placed on the movies and fiction writers in general for creating a glamour of success seldom realized. For every handful that survive and succeed there are thousands who find their lives and character permanently affected.
The greatest difficulty for those who fall is they will rarely return home. The fear of criticism or ridicule turns them into professional drifters. The Bowery bread line and other charitable institutions are clogged with those dreading the home town scorn.
Those who deal with sociological problems are firm in their conviction that trained as well as untrained workers coming to New York for jobs should not attempt to experiment without sufficient funds to carry them through at least four months idleness.
This opinion is based on experience with tens of thousands of applicants served yearly by non-commercial registries. It is in the Fall most of the young hopefuls make the plunge to seek fame and fortune in the chilly metropolitan waters.
There is a deep rooted impression New York is the easiest city in the world in which to win success. This is true if one can weather the period of adjustment that is a natural outcome of a city so big and complex. My personal opinion is strangers should have funds sufficient to support them a year.
New York restaurants suffer losses in patronage through stupidity and stubbornness of head waiters and waiter captains seating customers. One of the annoying customs is to place "Reserved" cards on unreserved tables. This is a method of holding back a good table for the unexpected and favored patron which in itself may be all right. The annoyance is in using it as a bait for grafting tips. Restaurant patrons should be permitted, as they are in Europe, to make their table selections in order of appearance. The hardened diner-out abroad never permits a head waiter to pilot him to some obscure part of the room if desirable tables are unoccupied. He demands his rights and gets them or someone is liable to find himself knee deep in daisies.
And this will probably not be received with a big hug by restaurant proprietors, but it is my observation the best service and doubtless the best food. The meek-mannered and considerate are parked behind a palm within touching distance of the trap drummer and are given the consideration of an unpopular stepchild. The blunderer is the fair haired boy in cafes.
It is also true that people who would not think of displaying their temper in a department store or haberdashery shop will explode and raise the roof in a restaurant. To interfere with a man seeking to satisfy his appetite for food is to court a ruckus.
Until tipping is abolished restaurant service will never be ideal. The generous tipper will naturally receive the soft attentions the parsimonious are denied. The Chinese cafes come nearest to solving the problem. Most of them permit their waiters to share in the profits and a skimpy tip does not curl their lip.
"New York does not realize its debt to syndicated columnists who make that city far more interesting than it really is and bring hordes of visitors. And so modest are columnists they would never think of claiming the slightest credit."—London Times.

YOUR HEALTH
An Ounce of Prevention Is Worth A Pound of Cure.
By Dr. Royal S. Copeland.
Do you overeat? After taking all the food your body requires, do you add another course or two? I read the other day, "Every morsel of a satisfied hunger is only a new labor to a tired digestion."
The instincts of a healthy body are to be trusted. Of course, if you have perverted and distorted your appetite by abuse of your organs, you cannot trust your desires.
If the wires of the telephone lines are crossed and tangled by a tempest, the ringing of your 'phone is meaningless. It is not a call for you, but merely the senseless noise of a disordered system.
If you habitually eat food you do not require, or take foods that are harmful to your system, your stomach cannot be trusted to tell you truthfully whether you need more food or not. You just don't know whether you have had enough or really require more. On the contrary, if you are sensible about your eating, and practice common sense every day you may trust your appetite. Your feelings will accurately record your necessities.
Then you will know by the satisfaction of your hunger that the meal should be ended. Under these circumstances, to add a single morsel, is only to give unnecessary labor to the digestive system. As the epigram states, it will give "only a new labor to a tired digestion."
The digestive powers are set to the actual requirements of the body. We must have so much protein, so much fat and carbohydrates. All we take in excess of our real needs must be worked over by the machinery of the body and be disposed of by organs which require all their energies for their normal work. We wear out the machinery by giving it unnecessary work to do. We tire it by overwork.
The other day I was in Syracuse and went to lunch with three business men of that city. They are successful executive and splendid characters. All of them are strong vigorous, handsome, healthy men.
I cannot refrain from observing what people eat. My interest in health and nutrition makes me wonder how well these teachings of ours are affecting the public.

Other Editors Say
The halo of heroism is ever about the head of the policeman, especially in these days of crime waves and handouts, but the romance of police work usually is associated with smoking pistols, thrilling chases, running ducks, and astounding headwork on the part of detectives. In all this, the traffic policeman, the man whose bright blue uniform is seen at the street intersections or patrolling the parking areas followed by his intelligent and patient horse is sadly neglected.
Here, mates, is a job that requires more sterling qualities than most people believe. In the first place, only one man in 5,000 is temperamentally and physically fitted for the job. He must be unemotional, unimaginative and 100 per cent stable. He must be immune to monotony and insensitive to the ever-present danger of the post, besides having the patience of Job, who only had boils to bother him, while a traffic policeman meets more cranks and pests than the superintendent of a psychopathic ward.
Perfect physique is one of the first requirements. His bearing and sight must be superior. He needs agile feet to dodge the ceaseless stream of cars and strong lungs to bear the diet of carbon monoxide. He faces greater and more constant danger than the men in any other branch of the department, with death, riding every front fender that whizzes past him. Neurosis and nervous hysteria walk at his side during the long hours of duty. Bearing this in mind, motorists should take a little different attitude toward these stalwart men who are giving their all for the protection of the public.—Columbus Dispatch

Don't Stint on Words of Praise.
It's all right to criticize your friends when they do things harmful to their physical well-being or to such popularity as they might enjoy otherwise. But you cannot expect any friend to stand for constant faultfinding. Sometimes your close friends have seemed to avoid you.
You have wondered why.
Without doubt it is the result of your censuring too often and praising too little.
Everyone likes to be complimented for things well done.
Too often commendable things are passed unnoticed.
They are looked upon as "to be expected," but this is a mistake. Sincere praise from a dear friend is most appreciated.
It is not honest or just to compliment a friend for a piece of work which is not well done.
True friendship is honest, even when it hurts.
Too often personal reasons and a desire not to offend keeps friends from speaking the truth to each other.
But the friendship that places personal reasons and present comfort before loyal, steadfast candor is not the right sort.

Again?

The unlightened woman who still suffers every month, receives little sympathy when she could so easily end those pains with Midol. This merciful medicine is not a narcotic, you know. Nor does it interfere in the slightest with the normal and natural process of menstruation. It does banish the pain—in five to seven minutes. Because it acts directly on the organs affected. If taken ahead of time, you may avoid a single uncomfortable moment. Try to realize what a truly wonderful discovery this is; it has made at least one form of suffering quite needless. When every drugstore has these harmless tablets isn't it foolish to be a martyr? Midol costs fifty cents, in aluminum case.*

*Midol's comfort is not confined to any certain days or age. It relieves at any time of life. Its case is felt immediately in cases of nervous headache, backache, cramping, hot flashes and all febrile pain peculiar to women.

Safe for food!

There's considerable difference between a safe and a refrigerator but the idea is the same. A good safe guards valuables; a good refrigerator guards food—not against theft but against bacteria.

You can't afford to take chances on milk for youngsters or meat for grown-ups. You can't be too careful about food. Safeguarding food is safeguarding health and food remains healthfully safe only when it is kept at a temperature always below 50 degrees.

The quiet General Electric Refrigerator supplies this perfect refrigeration. It is remarkably different from all others. All the mechanism is up on top, sealed in an air-tight steel casing—so absolutely automatic that you do not even oil it!

It is easiest to keep clean because it is porcelain finished inside and out and it is up-on-legs with lots of "broom-room" underneath. The coils, placed on top, radiate the mild heat drawn from inside the refrigerator and cause a steady, gentle upward current which keeps dust from settling.

Come in and see the various models —arrangements for deferred payments may be made if you desire.

State's Star Witness Held for "Wilful Perjury."

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 18.—A menacing forefinger across the throat—the underworld death sign to the "squealer"—hovered over the Philadelphia rum investigation today.

These endangered by the revelations of police corruption have sent forth the word that too much is being spilled across the bar of justice, authorities declare.

Francis J. McKeown, former owner of a Germantown saloon and counted on as one of the state's star witnesses, was under $5,000 bail today charged with "wilful and deliberate perjury."

Why? McKeown took the witness stand at the trial of Matthew Patterson, ward politician, and former Police Captain Charles W. Schoenleber. The defendants are accused of conspiracy in alleged collecting from saloon keepers for police protection. A sewing spectator trailed his forefinger at right angles across his throat. Perhaps he was arranging his necktie. McKeown stared, then he started. Assistant District Attorney Lemuel B. Schofield by repudiating testimony supplied a few weeks ago under examination.

Pay for Beer Truck Right of Way.

Judge Edwin O. Lewis held McKeown on a charge of perjury.

When Al Hendrie, "lager baron," testified at a hearing to paying $3,600 a month's right-of-way protection for his beer truck fleet, four men in the court room snapped their fingers across their throats. Perhaps they were rubbing their stubbled chins.

"Things are just beginning to pop open," said the district attorney's office as three more police captains were suspended.

"And more than bottles will pop if this spilling keeps on," ominously predicted one who claims to know the inside of the rum ring here.

ZEPPELIN REEL ON CERAMIC BILL

A 250-foot reel depicting the arrival of the Graf Zeppelin at Lakehurst, N. J., after its 6,000-mile flight across the Atlantic ocean from Germany, will be shown at the Ceramic theatre tonight.

Invite Zep Visit (Continued From Page One)

by the importunities of German officials who want the Graf Zeppelin back in Berlin as a feature of the air congress there.

May Follow Ohio River.

According to plans formulated today, subject to weather and other conditions, the Graf Zeppelin will leave Lakehurst at dawn on next Thursday and fly to Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis and as many other cities en route as possible. The dirigible will return to Lakehurst by sunset on Friday to take on a supply of "blau" gas for the trans-Atlantic flight to Friedrichshafen which will be undertaken as soon as the airship can be made ready, possibly as late as dawn on Monday, Oct. 29.

The course of the Graf Zeppelin on the return from St. Louis is more problematical. It may follow the Ohio river to pass over Cincinnati, Dayton and Columbus and return to Lakehurst across southern Pennsylvania, or it may swing south from St. Louis. The former return course was considered more likely as plans were being made today.

Dream of Atlantic Aerial Service.

Dr. Eckener hopes to establish an all-year, trans-Atlantic dirigible line for the transportation of passengers, mail and freight by four Zeppelins. He believes that the Graf Zeppelin's successful 6,000-mile flight has proved the feasibility of such a project.

Following a dinner given in his honor last night by the Board of Trade for German-American Commerce, Dr. Eckener made known his dream of establishing a regular trans-Atlantic aerial service.

"I hope to establish a $14,000,000 corporation to build and operate dirigibles like the Graf Zeppelin for an all-year, 50-hour service between Germany and the United States," he said.

"When I brought the Los Angeles to the United States four years ago, I discussed the project for such a service with a very prominent American financier. At that time he was not fully convinced of the practicability of my plan. But this time I hope to convince him."

CLEVELAND, Oct. 18.—The eyes of Akron, Cleveland and other northern Ohio points will be cast skyward next Thursday when the Graf Zeppelin, "the greatest physical achievement of man," sets its majestic course to Detroit.

The Cleveland Chamber of Commerce definitely announced the date of the giant airship's visit today, after receiving a telegram from Hugh Allen, publicity director of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber company of Akron, and personal agent of Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Zeppelin.

After arriving at the Ford mooring mast, Dr. Eckener is to fly back to Cleveland in an airplane, for a reception here, and will then fly to Akron for another reception, according to Allen. Returning to the Zeppelin, Dr. Eckener may take it to Chicago and St. Louis before turning back East for his return flight to Germany.

When the huge ship passes over Cleveland, school children will be taken from their classes, office workers and laborers will leave their tasks and hospital patients will be wheeled into the open. Every person in the city is expected to seek some vantage point to view the new wonder of the air.

CITIZENSHIP OF HOOVER IS GIVEN U. S. O. K.

State Department Silences Whispering Attack.

RECORD SEARCHED

Always Applied for Passports When He Went Abroad.

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON. WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—The long whispering attack on the American citizenship of Herbert Hoover, started during the Republican pre-convention campaign and continued by Democratic sources since his nomination, was silenced effectively today following a formal announcement by the state department that "there never has been the slightest question of Mr. Hoover's American citizenship."

The fact that Hoover spent many years abroad in the employment of British engineering firms was the basis of campaign whispers that Hoover had lost his American citizenship. Only once previously during the campaign had this story been brought into the light of political debate and that occurred during Hoover's visit to Elizabethton, Tenn. On that occasion former Governor Alf Taylor, of Tennessee declared Hoover had been offered a British title to become a British citizen and that his reply was "he preferred to be beheaded and his body cremated, rather than to lose his American citizenship."

Registered as American.

The state department, in silencing this campaign libel, declared it twice had investigated Hoover's citizenship, once in 1920 and more recently in response to a newspaper inquiry. The department reported that Hoover had registered in 1908 at the American consulate in London as an American citizen, in response to an order by the late President Roosevelt that all American citizens living abroad should be registered by the consular offices.

The department also announced Hoover had applied for American passports to Russia as early as 1909 at a time when only Russia and Turkey required passports. In 1911 and again in 1913, Hoover obtained similar passports. The same thing occurred in 1915, 1916 and 1918, the department added.

"In all applications," the department continued, "for passports, as well as in the original registration at the consulate, Mr. Hoover established the United States as his permanent residence."

Never Voted in England.

Dr. Hubert Work, Republican national chairman, subsequently issued a statement, denying rumors that Hoover once had voted in a British election. Work announced that on several occasions from 1909 to 1914, Hoover's name had appeared on a British "register of persons entitled to vote," in a precinct in which he had rented a house. Under the British law, Work explained, all persons renting houses, paid taxes on their houses and had their names listed on the voting list, "subject to test if attempt was made to vote."

"Mr. Hoover never voted," Work added, and he never attempted to vote. He would have been subject to drastic penalties if he had voted."

Work declared Hoover had not learned his name was on this roll until a short time ago and then to his surprise.

"Mr. Hoover became aware of this fact only by being informed of search being made of local records by representatives of American detective agencies and opposition newspapers endeavoring to find something which they could launch in this campaign," Work continued.

It is no secret at Republican headquarters that Hoover has taken this attack on his citizenship closer to heart than any criticism of his public career. He is an American to the heart, values his citizenship above any other honor in the world and has protected it at all times.

GOV. AL SMITH MAKES BID FOR ILLINOIS VOTE

Democrat Nominee in Chicago After Border Swing.

SPEAKS FRIDAY

Candidate Will Return to Albany Saturday Morning.

By George R. Holmes.

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—Gov. Al Smith came back to big city sidewalks today after a week spent in rapid traveling through the cotton, corn and tobacco belt.

He is on the trail of the 29 electoral votes of Illinois, and he will stay on it for three days here in Chicago. Moreover, he is confident that he has a good chance to win them three weeks hence despite the traditional Republicanism of the state.

Governor Smith was told by state leaders upon his arrival in Chicago that Democratic chances in Illinois are rosy. State Chairman Tom Donovan told him that for the first time in many years the Republican farmers downstate, who always send a Republican presidential candidate to the Chicago City limits with an overwhelming majority, are off the G. O. P. reservation this year, and that this fact, coupled with Chicago's known weakness, can be relied upon to carry the state for him.

Pooh-pooh Democratic Claims.

Both Donovan and George N. Peck, Illinois farm leader, who was active in the promotion of the Lowden candidacy at the Kansas City convention, declared that Gov. Smith will come up to the Cook county line in November on even terms with Herbert Hoover, and that Cook county will give him a majority of 150,000 votes.

The Republicans, of course, publicly pooh-pooh these Democratic claims. But the Democratic leaders who welcomed Governor Smith to the state stoutly insist upon the correctness of their reports, and asserted

Wonderful For Piles

Suffered for Years; Says There's Only One Remedy

John O'Leary, Buffalo, for 14 years Supervisor of the Second Ward, wants to pass the good word along.

"Take it from me," says Mr. O'Leary, "when you suffer torment with piles for many years as I did, and tried all kinds of remedies without any success, you'll be glad to say a good word for the only remedy that is any good."

"Peterson's Ointment rid me of piles so quickly that I was astonished. I felt somewhat pained, however, to think that I had suffered so many years before knowing what a wonderful remedy Peterson's Ointment is. Let me thank you from the bottom of my heart."—John O'Leary.

Any live druggist will tell you about Peterson's Ointment—a big box for 35 cents. Use it for old sores, ulcers, itching eczema, rashes, burns, bruises, chafing and all skin diseases—there is nothing better.

that November would prove it. At any rate they are extremely confident and sanguine, and the Republicans are privately a little worried. Some of the G. O. P. leaders are insisting that Herbert Hoover make a speech here en route to California about Nov. 1.

harder than ordinary steel, lighter than this Zeppelin.

That has been accomplished already in theory. And our Navy is building the first all-metal dirigible.

CONGRATULATIONS to Senator Bingham, of Connecticut. Sitting at luncheon in Washington, he saw the Zeppelin flying overhead and thought it the business of a senator to know as much as possible about such an arrival.

He hurried from luncheon to the Anacostia naval air station, got in an airplane, started after the big dirigible, passed it, landed at Lakehurst to wait for it to come down.

He will be able to tell other senators and the president, who saw the great machine flying over Washington: "Another machine like that,

NOT friendly, could have blown the Washington monument, Lincoln Memorial, White House and capitol, supreme court included, into fragments. We ought to think about that, and be prepared."

BENJAMIN STRONG, chairman of the Federal Reserve bank, only 56 years old, dies of overwork and constant strain.

Business men ought to realize it takes 40 years to understand business thoroughly, and the years from 40 to 80 are needed to use knowledge acquired before 40.

IN THIS campaign the Democratic party repudiates officially the old Democratic party low-tariff ideas.

Gov. Smith assures voters that he will give to labor and industry tariff protection that it requires.

Much of our labor and industry need more protection than they have now.

FOR instance, foreigners send into the United States, so this writer is informed, 1,500,000 tons of manufactured steel annually.

That does not mean competition with big steel companies only, but especially competition with labor, which labor realizes.

The Dominican Sisters of St. Dominic Monastery, La Crosse, Wisconsin have found that for treating and preventing colds and building up the aged and sickly, Father John's Medicine is so effective that they have used it daily for many years.

Following is part of a letter from the Mother Prioress:—

"We have found out that there is nothing better than Father John's Medicine for colds, or building up the body. It always helps our weak or delicate sisters, and those who have colds soon recover and grow stronger. We cannot praise Father John's Medicine too highly. We cheerfully recommend it for colds and as a body builder and hope that all who use it may obtain the same wonderful results as we do; it does a world of good."

Father John's Medicine is absolutely free from alcohol and dangerous drugs. For 73 years it has won similar tributes of praise as the safe family medicine for colds and body building.

To fry FISH without smoke or odor

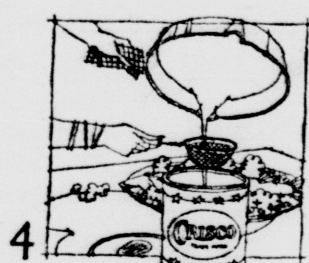

1 Put Crisco into cold frying pan. To thoroughly cook the food (for example, a fish) without smoke or scorching, fry slowly, using enough Crisco to partly cover it. It will not require the constant attention frying does when only a little fat is used.

2 Put frying pan over low heat. As soon as Crisco is melted put in a small piece of bread. As soon as bread starts to brown put in the fish.

3 Cook slowly until fish is nearly done, then turn to brown the other side. With plenty of Crisco in the pan the fish is easily turned without breaking, if you wait until it is almost done.

4 Strain the Crisco into an empty can and use it for the next thing you want to fry. No one will know you have fried fish in it.

Acids in Stomach Cause Indigestion

Neutralize Acid After Meals With Bismarated Magnesia. Instant Relief. Makes Stomach Feel Fine.

Nearly nine-tenths of all stomach disturbance, indigestion, gas, sourness, heartburn, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of acid in the stomach. Artificial digestants are not needed in such cases and may do real harm.

Games Of Major Interest Crowd Saturday Football Schedule

Big 10 Teams Watched In "Crucial" Contests

Notre Dame and Georgia Tech Battle; Alabama Faces Test With Tennessee; Conference Games in Spotlight.

By Davis J. Walsh.
NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Quietude, Webster wrote, is the state or quality of being quiet; repose; tranquillity; rest. Then he went to the telephone and gave his story to a modern re-write man and, when it finally saw the light of day, he was surprised to learn that quietude is the thing one won't get on Saturday anywhere in the vicinity of a pair of goal posts. This, it might be mentioned, means approximately everywhere, thus narrowing the situation down considerably.

Anyhow, football comes up for a big league trial this week for the first time this season. The transition from minor to major engagements on Saturday is more abrupt than at any time in the writer's memory. In only one line of inquiry is it possible that one can't go wrong and that is in naming the so called little games. There isn't any.

The haste with which the 1928 season is getting to a climax is best realized by the fact that California and Southern California are meeting at Berkeley. To the Golden Bear, Stanford alone is a more significant opponent than U. S. C., to the latter, significance begins with the Golden Bears and ends when and if it beats them. This is quite an issue to be contesting as early as the third Saturday in October but the game, far from being unique in this respect, is just a prominent example. The day has more issues than the Liberty loan. Perhaps as interesting as any will be the meeting between Georgia Tech and Notre Dame at Atlanta, since it will give us a line on southern football in relation to the rest of the country, the latter being very prominent on Notre Dame's schedule. The Harvard-Army game at Cambridge is another focal point because the latter always is good and Harvard seems to be getting that way, after a slight delay of maybe ten years. The Army's performance is interesting because it is playing one of those "rest of the country" schedules, too.

The new Big Six conference in and adjacent to the Missouri Valley will stand plenty of watching this week end. Probably as strong as any set of teams in the country, it will have a chance to prove something definite when Nebraska and Syracuse, highly qualified sectional representatives, have at it at Lincoln. Missouri will get a real test of the speed they say it has in its meeting with Iowa State and, if the Tigers really intend to dominate the situation out that way, they will do well to start dominating with this one or turn their attention to something less precarious.

Speaking of tests, perhaps Alabama, apparently headed back toward sectional affluence, will be forced to expose its hand against Tennessee and, before I get off this subject entirely, I would like to mention the fact that Illinois, 1927 champion of the Big Ten, will play Indiana at Champaign. Indiana beat Michigan by a touchdown but I'm not sure whether this will mean anything by 1932. At that, any conference game is a tough number for anybody and so we must look with pointed inquiry at Ohio State until the final returns are in.

and ordinarily this would be a game of games out that way. As it is, it merely means that Ohio State must win it or lose caste accordingly.

That approximately is the case with Minnesota against Chicago; Pennsylvania against Penn State and Wisconsin against Purdue. The opponent in each case has been defeated, which means that even a tie score will lose the ball game, in effect, for Minnesota, Pennsylvania or Wisconsin.

Natural, geographical and conference rivals will meet in the following games: Bucknell vs Lafayette; Carnegie Tech vs W. and J.; Dartmouth vs Columbia; Yale vs Brown; Alabama Poly vs Mississippi; Century vs Baylor; Drake vs Grinnell; Kansas State vs Kansas; Oregon vs Washington; Southern Methodist vs Rice; Texas Aggies vs Texas Christian; Tulane vs Vanderbilt; and Washington State vs Oregon Aggies.

A large occasion? If it was any smaller, the Grand Canyon of the Colorado would have a rival.

Toronto Grid Star Expelled

Bearing on Saturday Game Undetermined.

TORONTO, O., Oct. 18.—Warren "Bugs" Steele, captain, tackle and fullback of the Toronto high school football team, together with three other students, were expelled from school yesterday afternoon as a result of playing "hokey" from a physics examination.

Whether the expulsion, or suspension, or whatever school authorities may later term it, will keep Steele from the game with East Liverpool here Saturday afternoon, was not known today.

Steele is rated the most valuable man on the Toronto squad and his absence from the lineup would leave a big hole in the Gem City eleven's attack and defense.

Coch Herold had anticipated shifting Steele from his customary position at tackle to the fullback berth for the game Saturday with the Poters.

Gilbert Jones, veteran quarterback, will be out probably the remainder of the season as a result of a broken collar bone.

Elaborate plans are being made for a flag presentation to the Toronto eleven just before the game by the steel workers' organization here, with Ben I. Davis, editor of the Amalgamated Journal, Pittsburgh, as the speaker. After the game a banquet will be served the team and the faculty in the First Presbyterian church.

Salem Gridders Invade South-County For Wellsville Clash

Will Test Efficiency Of Orange Air Attack

Result Will be Interesting to Potters Who Will Play Both Teams Later in Season in County Title Drive.

With East Liverpool gridders in action at Toronto, and Chester unscheduled, attention of stay-at-home grid fans Saturday will be turned largely on the Salem-Wellsville scuffle at Nicholson Field, Wellsville.

It will be the first opportunity for a close-up view of the Quaker county, one of Columbiana county's "big three" of the gridiron and doubtless the scrimmage will attract a large delegation of fans.

The struggle will be especially interesting to the Blue and White and the team's followers inasmuch as the locals tangle with both Salem and Wellsville in games later on. The Hurstmen tackle Salem at Salem

Pitt Prepares For Stiff Tilt With Allegheny

Panthers to Show Improved Aerial Defense.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 18.—The Pitt Panthers face their last minor contest of the season, Saturday, when they meet the Allegheny college eleven, one of the strongest Class B teams in the tri-state district.

Although the game was originally scheduled for a "let-up" tilt between the West Virginia and Carnegie Tech battles, it now looms as another test for Coach Sutherland's men. The Meadville team, coached by Mel Merritt, former Dartmouth luminary, boasts one of the best aggregations in the history of the school.

Pitt expects a hard fight and during the past week, Coach Sutherland has been pushing his men. An improved aerial defense and offense will mark the play of the Panthers.

Walter Berger, of Homestead, and Nick Varano of Vandergrift, two boys from the Pittsburgh district, are the mainstays of the Allegheny offense. Berger holds down a halfback post and it was his forward passes that scared Dartmouth last week for three quarters. Varano is a sophomore who pairs up with Berger at half.

Captain Slaven and Hughes are two good ends who have been playing hang-up ball for Allegheny. From end to end the Methodists have a heavy line that will outweigh the Panther forward wall. Berger, Varano, Barbark and Rowington compose Allegheny's lightning backfield.

Probable lineup: Allegheny.
Donchess L. E. Hughes
Tully L. T. Gibson
Fox (C) L. G. McManus
Montgomery C. Koeniger
DiMeolo R. G. Billings
Setto R. T. Pichino
Scanlan R. E. Slaven (C)

Uansa R. H. Varano
Parkinson F. P. Barbark

veloped a forward passing attack with Quarterback Pacey on the heaving end and the flankmen, Coats and Fiber, on the receiving, that has been startlingly successful this fall.

The lightness of his squad, compared with last year's outfit, forced him to devise appropriate methods of ground gaining and the way his passing system has been working to date has more than fulfilled expectations. As a result, the efficiency of Salem's pass defense may determine the outcome.

Chester Is Hit by Injuries

Broken Ribs and Noses Cripple Half of Squad.

COACH KEIGHTLEY'S Chester high school football squad will be idle Saturday, no engagement having been scheduled for the date. The break in the schedule, however, comes as a distinct "break" for the squad which is hit with so many physical breaks that it would be virtually impossible to assemble a varsity squad if a game had been billed.

Checkup by athletic officials following Saturday's game reveals the fact that three Chester regulars are laid up with broken ribs and two with broken noses, constituting almost half the varsity squad.

Both ends, Earl Mellot and Lawrence Taylor, come under the broken rib classification, keeping company with Lawrence Campbell, a backfield man.

McKinney, guard, and Maple, center, are temporarily out of action because of broken noses.

Certainly, this quintet would be unable to play Saturday, if a game were booked and it is doubtful now when they will be able to get back into the lineup.

There's only one more home attraction on the Chester schedule and that takes East Liverpool to Smith Field on Nov. 17.

Keightley's eleven goes to Irondale Oct. 27; to Weirton Nov. 3; to Folansbee Nov. 10, and to New Cumberland, Nov. 24.

Frosh Score on Yale In Scrimmage Drill

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 18.—

The "Hold 'em Yale" yell may be heard quite frequently at the Yale-Brown game here Saturday, judging from the Eli varsity's failure to stop the freshmen in yesterday's practice. Given the ball six times on the varsity's ten-yard line, the frosh scored three touchdowns and made a field goal.

It Never Pays

Romance in New York

By GILBERT ROGERS

"Please," Mabel said stumbingly, "don't you see I'm just trying to tell you? . . . and it doesn't matter because I've gotten all over it . . . oh, I'm so miserable."

Those last revealing words came from her like a cry, and suddenly her formality, her coldness, deserted her. She looked up at Sally, and she smiled now.

"But I really will get over it," she said at last. "And it's finding out how much he cares for you that has made me realize—" She could not finish.

"And you don't hate me?" Sally asked. "Because I want you to like me. I do, I do! I wouldn't be happy if you didn't. And I want to be so happy now. Oh, if you knew what it meant to me—all this you've told me."

Mabel took Sally's hand in hers. She was smiling still, her little crooked smile that looked like the kind of smile that might accompany tears.

"Just go down there—as soon as you can," was all she said. "He's waiting for you. I told him I'd try to find you."

Sally walked home on something lighter than air. The wind was saying only one thing to her, the stars in the clear sky were in that splendid secret, the night, alive with delicate sounds and scents, promised only the happiness that would be hers always now. Jerry loved her, loved her—as she loved him. The world was wonderful after all. What did the tawdry cruelties of Shevlin and his kind matter, when someone like Jerry lived?

When she reached the house, there was no sign of Carlotta. From the windows of the library glowed a dull light. No doubt Adrian Martin and Shevlin were still closeted there. Discussing what? It was lucky for Sally's peace she did not know. She was to find out the results of that conference soon enough.

She went to bed, planning to take a train in the early morning. "If I can get to sleep," she thought, "it will make the time so much shorter." But she could not win sleep that way, and for a long time lay there, thinking of the man she loved and what the future might be before drowsiness came at last.

She was up early enough, and for once found Carlotta Brooks up, too.

Sally told her she was leaving as early as she could. Carlotta nodded.

"I'm sorry, but I won't try to stop you. It was bad enough asking you to come up here—but I was half out of my head. I can't realize now I'm the same person who did that." Then after a pause she went on: "I'll be in New York very soon myself. He left last night. I'm going to follow him."

For a moment Sally looked at her in astonishment, wondering if Carlotta's new resolution had weakened and she was still in Shevlin's thrall.

But Carlotta noticed the look and shook her head. "I want to follow him, because I want to watch him. There's something I must do—something to pay back what he did to Mark."

But Sally noticed that she did not mention what he had done to her. Her own thoughts raced on to Jerry, and then she could think of nothing else.

CHAPTER 42.

When she was on the train, she found her nerves at their highest pitch.

For now that she was really going to see him, it seemed to Sally she could not wait even this while. Sixty miles an hour on the steel tracks was not fast enough. At Wickford Junction, she had felt she had waited for hours for the through train. At every station she chafed at the delay. Why did they need to take so much time with baggage and mail anyway? What was the loss of a few trunks or a couple of million dollars' worth of mail compared to these priceless instants that separated her from Jerry?

And because she was so anxious, she even began to worry. Perhaps Jerry had given up hopes of finding her, had gone away—or something had occurred to keep them still apart. Sally shivered, and looked out of the window at the formless landscape.

The Connecticut cities slipped behind them, and now the train was passing flat, ugly reaches that looked as if an army had marched there, torn up trees, made pits in the earth, piled cans and debris in mounds, and gone on its way of devastation.

The tunnel at last, and the concrete platforms with the hurrying porters. Sally had scarcely enough change to check her bag and take a subway downtown. It was fortunate, she thought, that Mrs. Brooks had bought her a round-trip ticket to Newport.

At the sight of the familiar brownstone house, she felt her breath come hard and fast, as if she had been running. Fear and longing made her feel suddenly weak, frightened.

She opened the door that was never locked and passed into the dingy hallway. Her fingers knocked at Jerry's doorway. She knew she must be deadly pale, and she felt a sense of suffocation.

Suppose he didn't really want to see her, suppose . . . but even while a dozen fantastic things leapt into her mind, the door was opened, and he was there, looking at her in the dimness of the hallway.

But only for a moment did he stand like that, for the next instant he had caught her in his arms with an articulate sound of happiness. And her head against his shoulder, his lip against her face, his heart beating loud and clear against her heart, Sally gave a little sigh of unutterable peace. And now there was not any loneliness in the world, nor anything sorrowful or cruel.

Except in broken murmurs they did not speak for sometime, content to look at each other, to sit close together, his arm around her, her eyes solemnly and raptly devouring him.

He was a little thinner, but in no other way did he show traces of the fever that had burned in his blood. Thinking of how he had come by that, tramping desperately through the rain, taking no care of himself, trying only to find her, Sally's heart was infinitely touched. That he should care enough for her—that was the miracle of it. She thought of his faults—no other man who ever lived had such wonderful faults!

"Of, if I can't always love like this, if I can't always feel like this," she thought, "I shall not want to live." Thinking of the years in which she had lived independently, unsundered, it seemed to her now, as if they were wasted years, as if she had not begun to know the meaning of anything until that day when she had first seen Jerry Evesham.

She tried to falter out an explanation of the note than Dan Shevlin had showed her. Then because he seemed now so ready to believe in her, to understand, she told him everything, her life, her hopes, her wish to escape the round of dreariness which had led her to accept Dan Shevlin's strange offer.

"I wanted to have money, luxury, everything—do you hate me for that, Jerry?" He kissed her, silent. She went on: "Only when I met you, I realized I didn't want anything except you."

But when she was through he sat very still, a dark frown on his face. Her hand timidly touched him. "Jerry, you don't—Jerry, you're not—" But he turned to her with a quick, reassuring laugh.

"I was only thinking about this man Shevlin. I'd like to settle with him—that's all."

"Jerry—u mustn't. He's—he'd do anything. Besides that's all over—I've forgotten it." She thought of Carlotta then, turned from a helpless slave into an implacable enemy of Dan Shevlin. Shevlin had enemies enough as it was!

But Jerry only looked rueful. "Oh, I shan't be able to do anything anyway. Look here. Read this, and you'll see what I've been going through today!"

It was a telegram and it was signed with Adrian Martin's name.

"Leave for La Paz immediately. Assure Colonel Gutierrez his negotiations satisfactory. On your return will put you in charge New York office."

"But—but what does it mean?" Sally asked.

"It means I've got to leave here tomorrow morning—there's a sailing then, and there won't be another for
